IFEEDER Funds Two New Projects; Accepts Platinum Payment from AFIA

The Institute for Feed Education and Research (IFEEDER) Board of Trustees met Jan. 26 in Atlanta, GA, just prior to the International Feed Expo/International Poultry Expo. The Board regrettably accepted resignations from two pioneer trustees, Paul Phillips, Maxi-Lift and Dr. Trevor Tomkins, Milk Specialties Company. The trustees' expressed their deep appreciation for the work and support of these two pioneers.

At the approval of the AFIA Board of Directors, the trustees noted with appreciation the transfer of a $75,000 platinum founding pledge to IFEEDER at the beginning of 2011. This brings the number of founding pledges fully paid to 17.

The principal purpose of the trustees' meeting was to consider projects from its Education and Research Committees.

The trustees unanimously approved a two-year grant of $45,000 total to the National Research Council that will provide the final amount to authorize the formation of a new Beef Nutrient Requirements Committee.

This grant assisted in leveraging an additional $200,000 in grants from other groups.

The trustees also authorized up to $15,000 to AFIA to fund a Salmonella in Feed Research Coalition, which hopes to raise $100,000 total from other related groups.

The trustees heard from the Animal Agriculture Alliance about its capabilities at the request of the Education Committee. This committee will develop projects for consideration at the next trustees' meeting in Las Vegas, Nev., March 2, 2011.
